Join us for a review of what happened (or didn't happen) to health care reform at the federal level and what the effect is on Hawaii employers.

Insurance Commissioner Ito has indicated that health care costs in Hawaii are increasing 6 to 9 percent each year which will create an unsustainable premium payment by employers in the future.

What efforts are being made locally to try to "bend the cost curve" and is there anything employers can do to assist in the effort.

Join Terri O'Connell, in-house legal counsel, and Kathleen Kozak, medical director, both with UHA Health Insurance, in this one hour briefing.
