As the population of Hawaii ages, attorneys are faced with aging clients or witnesses who may be affected by dementia. The HSBA and the Neighbor Island Bar Associations; the Hawaii State Executive Office on Aging; the ABA Commission on Law and Aging; the UH Elder Law Project; the Legal Aid Society of Hawaii; and the National Legal Training Project are sponsoring statewide training sessions for attorneys who serve, or who may be called to service, individuals with dementia or memory loss. This one day seminar will train attorneys to recognize the signs of dementia and identify how to work with clients or witnesses affected by dementia. The training will be conducted by David Godfrey, Daniel Marson, and local elder law experts on each island.

DAVID GODFREY, J.D., is a senior attorney to the American Bar Association Commission on Law and Aging in Washington, DC. He is responsible for the ABA’s role in the Administration on Aging funded National Legal Resource Center and for producing the National Aging and Law Conference. He is a board member of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys. Prior to joining the Commission he was responsible for elder law programming at Access to Justice Foundation in Kentucky. Mr. Godfrey earned his BA with honors at Rollins College in Winter Park, Florida, and his JD cum laude from the University of Louisville School of Law in Kentucky.

Daniel Marson, J.D., Ph.D., is a clinical neuropsychologist, licensed attorney, and tenured full professor in the Department of Neurology at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, where he directs the Division of Neuropsychology and UAB Alzheimer’s Disease Center. He graduated from Carleton College, University of Chicago Law School, and Northwestern University in Clinical Psychology. He lectures nationally on competency in neurocognitive disorders and has over 100 publications on this topic. He’s been a principal investigator on multiple NIH grants and his work on financial capacity in the elderly has appeared in the New York Times, USA Today, and on NPR. Dr. Marson is a fellow and past president of the National Academy of Neuropsychology. He frequently serves as an expert witness in civil and criminal matters.
