As the stay-at-home orders and social distancing requirements of COVID-19 disrupt business in Hawaii, many businesses will turn to their commercial insurance policies, which may include business interruption insurance coverage, for financial assistance to cover payroll, rent, other liabilities, and potentially lost profits. This has sparked litigation around the country over coverage. Even President Trump recently weighed in on this hot topic saying he “would like to see the insurance companies pay if they need to pay.” In this one-hour webinar, the presenters will address frequently asked questions such as:

- What is business interruption insurance?
- What should you look for in your policies to determine coverage?
- What can you do to preserve and/or assert your rights under your policy?
- Whether government action or case law provides guidance on coverage?
- What is the impact of force majeure clauses on business interruption losses.

Presented by:

Ronald I. Heller
Director, Torkildson Katz Hetherington Harris & Knorek

Brian W. Tilker
Director, Torkildson Katz Hetherington Harris & Knorek